Help Plan Future Wake County Park

Wake County residents are invited to share their thoughts on a future park in southeastern Wake County. A community meeting will take place from 4 – 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 25, at the Fuquay-Varina Community Center, 820 S. Main St., Fuquay-Varina.

Wake County Southeast Park will be located adjacent to the towns of Garner and Fuquay-Varina. The park property is made up of several disjointed parcels of land totaling approximately 300 acres. While a portion of the land adjacent to Highway 42 is actively farmed, the majority of the park contains undeveloped forests, wetlands, stream channels, floodplains and rock outcrops, all of which support a diverse ecosystem and help protect critical natural resources.

The community meeting is the first in a series of forums to gather residents' input about the development of the park. This drop-in meeting will include interactive stations designed to inform attendees about the property, including the environmental and natural resources, as well as the site history.
