Lesson 3: Buy Recycled Business Letters

Objective:

- Students will understand the phrase “Buy Recycled” and realize its importance.
- Students will write a business letter to persuade a business or organization to buy recycled.
- Students will utilize proofreading and editing skills in preparation of a final draft letter.

Procedure:

1. Review the Teacher Background Section on closing the loop.
2. Review or teach business letter writing format. Review different letter formats such as the friendly letter form.
3. Remind students what the three-arrow recycling symbol means and why it is important to close the loop and buy recycled.
4. Show students examples of the three-arrow recycling symbol or label on packaging and products.
5. Explain to students that they will write a persuasive letter to a business or organization asking them to buy and use recycled content products. Brainstorm names of businesses and ideas to write about and map them on the board. Ideas could include reasons why buying recycled is important, thinking of examples of recycled content products applicable to a particular business or organization, and explaining the phrase “close the loop.”
6. Review the format of a business letter using the provided template. Remind students that they must maintain a professional tone throughout the letter, while still sounding persuasive and passionate about the topic. Students should explain why they are writing and express their feelings toward buying recycled, as well as give opinions and suggestions for implementation at the business. Letters should end on a positive note, with students thanking the organization for their attention. (A sample business letter is provided).
6. Review commonly used editing marks on the provided handout and explain to students that they will use these marks to edit another student’s letter.

7. Have students write a rough draft of their letter. Students should then exchange letters with a partner and proofread each other’s work using appropriate editing marks.

8. Instruct students to write their revised letters on final stationery. Letters can be typed, printed, and edited using computers.

9. Letters can be typed, printed, and edited using computers. Letters could be sent to the PTA or principal of the school, to the Wake County Public School System, the school board, or a parent’s place of work. Students can also use the Internet to research companies that sell recycled content products and list those companies in their letters.

Extensions/Modifications:
Students can use the Internet to research the economic and environmental issues associated with products made from recycled content and virgin material. Books are also useful but may be outdated in terms of correct data.

Dear Mr./Mrs./Ms./Miss first and last name:
-----Leave one blank line-----
The text will be typed here. Business letters typically are not indented. You should maintain a professional tone throughout the letter, while still sounding persuasive and passionate about the topic. Explain why you are writing to this business and why you chose to write to them. Express your feelings toward buying recycled and why you think it is important for individuals and businesses to buy recycled.
-----Leave one blank line between each paragraph-----
Your second paragraph should offer assistance in some way. You could give opinions and suggestions for how the business could use recycled content products, or list examples of products that company could use. End on a positive note by thanking the company for their time.
-----Leave one blank line-----
Sincerely,

Your signature

If your letter is typed, leave three blank lines between the closing and your typed name. This space will be where you sign your name.**
Dear Mr. Smith:

Our seventh grade environmental education class recently had a speaker talk about recycling and buying recycled products. It is important to buy products with recycled material so that the recycling cycle works. I’d like to see our school begin buying recycled products for our students and staff.

Some of the products that we use in our school that could be made from recycled products include notebook paper, pencils, rulers, bleachers, bathroom tissue and playground equipment. You can be sure that you are purchasing materials made from recycled products if you see the three arrow recycling symbol or the company indicates on the product that it is made from recycled materials. I think we could save trees and energy and reduce the amount of trash our schools produce if we make a commitment to buy recycled products. I do hope you will give this idea some serious consideration. Thank you for your time and please contact me if I can help you get this project underway.

Sincerely,

Mary Jones
